Radio Unilag Wanted

IN THINKING about allocating television channels to the component states of the Federation, the Federal Communication Minister should also bring to his mind the possibility of granting a radio channel and transmitter to the University of Lagos Mass Communication Department's Radio Studio Complex.

Since the establishment of the training radio studio complex at the Mass Communication Department by UNESCO in 1974, the studio has been operating within the walls of the Mass Communication building in the University; external transmission has been made impossible not because of the station's lack of adequate equipment, but for its lack of an allotted frequency and a transmitter. In fact, the Unesco-built radio station for mass communication training in Africa is regarded as the most sophisticated and best equipped radio complex in the country. This much-talked-about radio complex which has been hitherto castrated, should be given a voice now.

The case in point had been a topic of debate for long and the conclusion had been a "to be or not to be" stalemate. The Mass Communication department had met with the authorities to express the importance of a transmitting radio station to the communication students, the University, and the society at large.

Such a station would focus on education broadcast, news and entertainment; thus it will provide the much-needed bridge between the government, the University and the rest of the society.

Apart from development geared programming, the students on the other hand would be exposed to the realities of their profession much than they are exposed now through a simulated transmissions. Also, as it is operated in communication schools all over the world, the station could go commercial and provide fund for other projects in the university.

As of now, the studio complex is under-utilized. Though organisations like the army band, Radio Nigeria, Radio Lagos and others, occasionally record programmes in these studios; they do so on a non-commercial basis.

If the government grants the radio station a transmitter and a channel in the electro-magnetic spectrum, the station's big and well equipped all purpose studio, its standard continuity suits and the four grams and tape booths plus their master control, would be put into full use and their potentials would be equally realised.

Therefore, I suggest that "RADIO UNILAG" be given a voice now.

NTA Please Check

I AM a regular listener to the programme 'Crown Court' on NTA Channel 10 Lagos, every Friday at 11.15 pm. In as much as I like watching the series, the background noise which is either from recording or somewhere else is so disturbing that I almost loose interest in the programme.

The programme is very entertaining and educative; but please check the noise. I will also like to know why interesting movies are no longer on the slot. Many viewers like them and I hope you will bring them back preferably on Sunday.

Pen Pals

Kevin Uzodimma

I am a regular reader of your popular Radio/TV Times. I am 22 years old, and a student of Central Commercial School Apapa.

I want pen-pal within Nigeria, interests are, shorthand writing, letters, reading novels, photographing and swimming.

Any interested Pal should please contact Kevin Uzodimma at Federal Ministry of Employment, Labour and Productivity, Apapa.

Festus Apalowo

AS a regular reader of your popular and educative magazine Radio/TV Times I would appreciate it if you could publish my photographs on your pen pals column.

I want pen pals from all over the World. I am a Teacher by profession and my interests are journalism, photography and Games. I am 22 years old.

Any interested Pal should please contact Festus Femi Apalowo on Box 575, Ado-Ekiti in Ondo State.

Repeat That Play

IT WAS difficult for me to comprehend the worthiness of 'WHO DRUMS FOR APAMPA' for being the best prize winning play in a drama competition until I heard it myself on Radio Nigeria "Play of the Week" programme on Tuesday March 3, 1981.

That play was indeed a masterpiece. My congratulations goes to the writer of the play and the producer for a job done well.

The play in fact proves that the African culture and tradition can and will survive the impact of alien cultures on the African society.

For the benefit of your numerous listeners, I suggest a repeat broadcast of the play preferably on a public holiday. This play will surely capture the hearts of many as did such plays as 'MADAM TINUBU', 'BASORUN GAHA' and others.

Change The Name

MAY I be allowed a space to express my views on the popular magazine, Radio/TV Times.

Since the stations name has been changed to Radio Nigeria, the editor of this magazine has not made any changes on the back cover of the Radio/TV Times as well as the programme schedules.

Please bring your record up to date.

LANRE AJIBOLADE
Mayflower, Ikeme.

THANKS Lanre for your observation, if you look carefully through our present issues, you will equally observe that we have made the necessary changes.

But we will like you to note that we have not changed from FRCN to Radio Nigeria. FRCN is still the legal name for the Corporation while RADIO NIGERIA is the on the air identification for all FRCN Stations.

INDIGENIZATION

-Its implementation so far

By Emma Okorie.

EARLY in 1972, the Federal Government promulgated the Nigerian Enterprises Promotion Act which got to be known as the Indigenization Law. The Act came into force two years later. The programme became the main vehicle for creating more opportunities for Nigerian indigenous businessmen. It also helped to maximize local retention of profits.

Initially, businesses were classified under two schedules. Enterprises listed in the first schedule, such as Cinemas, Estate Agency, Advertising and Public Relations were reserved exclusively for Nigerians with effect from 1st April 1974. The law required that for businesses under schedule two, Nigerians should have 40% equity participation. The deadline for compliance was the end of March 1974.

By the end of 1974, the Federal government had acquired 40% shares in major commercial banks and obtained controlling interests in all oil-producing companies. According to the figures from the Secretariat of the Nigerian Enterprises Promotion Board, over 83 million was spent on the acquisition of Schedule I enterprises and their indigenization.

In the implementation of the policy, a number of problems were encountered. One was the difficulty by prospective indigenous investors in mobilising funds to buy or acquire shares being given by aliens. In response to this, the Federal Government established the Nigerian Bank for Commerce in 1973 with a capital of 10 million Naira to provide medium and long term loans to indigenous entrepreneurs for industrial and commercial investments.

Another serious problem arose from the reluctance of some aliens to comply with the law. Some of them tried to acquire Nigerian citizenship while others, colluded with a few unpatriotic Nigerians who posed as fronts for the foreign owned enterprises. Other methods used by the aliens to circumvent the law included liquidation of their businesses.

In the face of these developments, the Enterprises Promotion Act was amended in 1977. The highlight of the amendment was the classification of businesses under three schedules instead of two. Schedule one remained unchanged while the new schedule II comprised industries and activities which must have a minimum Nigerian equity participation of 60%. Schedule III which provided for 40% indigenous participation consisted of such enterprises like aircraft, engines and turbines manufacture.

To ensure the success of the second-phase of the indigenisation programme, the Nigerian Industrial Development Bank and the Nigerian Bank for Commerce and Industry were re-organized. In addition, the Nigerian Enterprises Promotion Board was thoroughly overhauled and two new stock exchanges were set up outside Lagos.

From all indications, the indigenisa-tion programme has been successfully implemented as far as the transfer of ownership is concerned. For instance in businesses where individual Nigerians were unable to buy shares, the Enterprises Promotion Board acquired such shares. The sum of 500 million Naira has so far been spent by the Board for this purpose. However, as a result of the unsatisfactory performance of some of the ventures, the government has had to review the programme. In the latest appraisal, agricultural projects have been moved from schedule two to schedule three to allow for increased foreign participation in line with the Federal government's determination to make the nation self-sufficient in food production.

The rescheduling of the agricultural sector is a move in the right direction. It remains for the Enterprises Promotion Board to ensure that the objective of the move is realised.

CIVIL SERVICE RULE

—Need To Adapt It To New Constitution

By Usman Shehu.

THERE seems to be a consensus on the need to take another look at the country's Civil Service Rule. And to most people, the prime objective of the review should be to eliminate those regulations that discourage initiative and the exercise of professional judgement by civil servants. But there is also the need to reconcile the rule with the Constitution, especially as the last review of the General Order was carried out in 1974, some five years before the current Constitution of the land came into force.

For instance, in matters relating to misconduct by civil servants, the General Order should reflect the relationship between the Civil Service Commission and the Code of Conduct Bureau bearing in mind the constitutional provision, that any allegation of a breach of the code of conduct for public officers, listed under the fifth schedule, shall be made to the Code of Conduct Bureau. This provision appears to have taken away substantial amount of the powers of Civil Service Commission to deal with cases of misconduct, since virtually every act or action which the General Order forbids civil servants from committing, is included in the Code for public officers.

There are some sections of the Civil Service Rule which served only the interest of the colonialists and therefore have no relevance in contemporary Nigeria. One specific example is a section of Chapter 12 which says government will be prepared to consider claims of officers whose horses die travelling on duty for which the use of horses is approved.

The question is, how many Nigerians use personal horses for official duty? The reality of our situation is that Civil Servants use bicycles or motor vehicles. Horses are aliens to us in this respect.

But these are issues that hardly affect the efficiency of our Civil Service. The real bane of the Nigerian public service generally is red-tapism.

Efficiency, speed and initiative are all lost in bureaucratic morass. And because of the overbearing atmosphere of officialdom which usually pervades government offices, business is mechanical and perfunctory. There is little sense of commitment and involvement on the part of Civil Servants. These are attitudes and a system which a government in a hurry to implement its programmes cannot tolerate.

In every part of the world, the Civil Service is an organ for the execution of government policies. The Service is therefore a powerful instrument of development in any nation. The success or failure of any government lies to a great extent on the efficiency of the civil service. The need for an efficient civil service is even greater in Nigeria considering that the bulk of social and economic services is administered by the public sector.

Red-tapism encourages and condones indolence and invariably rewards it. The Presidential System of administration is action oriented, so we need a civil service more forthcoming than what we have today. This calls for fundamental changes in attitude and philosophy.

Corruption is another vice that is bogging down the public service. The general belief today, is that, to get applications approved, one just has to grease the palms of some officials. This belief is unfortunately encouraged by the practice among certain civil servants in delaying action on files and their apparent unwillingness to entertain enquiries from members of the public. The result is a serious dent on the image of the service and people no longer have faith or confidence in the civil service and civil servants are held in contempt.

It could be argued that corruption in the civil service is a reflection of the society. But since the service is supposed to lead and bring about desirable changes in the society, it cannot afford to be complacent. The Civil Service must be well disciplined. Civil Servants must not only be loyal to government, they should also be honest in their duties and in their dealings with the public.

The Month Of Ramadhan

BY HADJI SAKA ADE. ADEDEJI

MUSLIMS all over the World mark the month of Ramadhan as the most happy occasion when they are expected to fast for 29 or 30 days. The exact date of Ramadhan depends on the appearance of the new moon which may be after 29 or 30 days of the preceding month. However, Muslims commence fasting with the new moon of Ramadhan and end on the appearance of the new moon of Sha-waal.

To begin and end fasting by the appearance of the new moon was the easiest and traditional method for people who can neither write nor read. And it was during the month of Ramadhan that the Holy Quran was revealed as a guidance to all believers, and that is why it is a must for all true Muslims to fast during the month of Ramadhan.

The first revelation came to the Hadji Ade Adedeji.

Holy Prophet on the 24th night of the Ramadhan, when he was in the cave of Hira. As he was praying, the Divine light fell on his mind, and the Angel Gabriel appeared with the great Divine Message. And so this special month which witnessed the greatest spiritual experience of the Holy Prophet, was thus considered to be the most suitable month for Ramadhan.

The observance of fasting however is not peculiar to Muslims alone. Other religious organisations all over the World do fast in one form or the other and their mode of fasting vary from one religious organisation to another.

In chapter 2 verse 183 of the Holy Quran, we read "O ye who believe, fasting is prescribed for you as it was prescribed for those before you so that you may guide against evil".

Fasting therefore is primarily a spiritual discipline, principles of self-denial and a fulfilment of one's religion obligations.

Assalam allaikum.

Muslims breaking fast.

Nigerian Shippers' Council

—establishment and activities

By Ben Egbuna.

ALTHOUGH the Nigerian Shippers' Council had just been launched, its existence dates back to 1978 when it was established by an Act of government.

This followed a 1965 resolution of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) which recommended the formation of Shippers Councils by national governments. The UNCTAD recommendation was made against the background of frequent increases in freight rates by ship owners and operators under the umbrella of Conference Lines, without consultations with the shippers who are the users of shipping services. The result of such dictatorial tendencies by the ship owners was higher cost of imported goods which were ultimately passed on to consumers.

Another effect of this practice was the impediment it constituted to our industrial development efforts considering that most of the equipment required for the nation's industrial growth was imported. For instance, between 1971 and 1979, the nation's freight bill rose from 25 million Naira to 780 million Naira, whereas our revenue from foreign trade during the same period increased from two billion Naira to only seven billion Naira.

The need for urgent steps in setting up Shippers' Councils was underlined at a meeting of Ministers responsible for Maritime Affairs in West and Central Africa, held in Ivory Coast, in 1975 during which a resolution calling for the formation of the Councils in West Africa was adopted.

The Shippers Councils are expected principally, to serve as a medium for collective consultation with ship owners. The Nigerian Shippers Council therefore is a forum for the protection of the interest of shippers on matters affecting the maritime freight of imports and exports. In effect, the Council is empowered to deal not only with ship owners but also with the Nigerian Ports Authority, the Department of Customs and Excise and tramp owners.

The objective of the Council however, does not end with the protection of the interest of shippers. The law establishing it gives it the function of liaison with appropriate arms of government and other organisations in assessing the stability and adequacy of existing services and making appropriate recommendations. It is also to advise the government on matters relating to the structure of freight rates, availability and adequacy of shipping pace, class and quality of vessels, port charges and other related matters.

In the relatively short existence of

the Nigerian Shippers Council, it has made quite significant achievements in safe-guarding not only the interests of shippers but also those of the country. Through its membership of the West and Central African Shippers' Council, it is already playing a prominent role in determining issues affecting shipping services in West Africa. It has held series of freedom rate negotiations with the major shipping conference serving the West African trade route and the results of those negotiations readily justify the establishment of the Council.

Compared with previous annual freight rate increases of between 20 and 25 percent, the Nigerian Shippers Council has succeeded in holding down the level of increase for the 1980/81 trading season to between four and eleven percent. This represents a huge reduction in the country's sea freight bill, which obviously would have been further raised by the ship owners. One only hopes that this achievement will be reflected in lower prices of imported goods in our markets. It is also hoped that a reduction in the rate of inflation in the country will follow.

The Nigerian Shippers Council should command the recognition of the nation's entire business community, for it is an effective machinery which replaces the weak individual approach to vexing issues affecting the country's commerce.
