CULTURE and Research Section of Radio Nigeria, Lagos has a programme titled "Moment For Thought" as one of its "star" programmes. You must have been listening to this programme every morning at 6.08 a.m. and 6.56 a.m. and every night at 9.30 p.m. "Moment For Thoughts" is a programme meant to spotlight the ills in our society and National awareness. This we do with the use of our society and National awareness. This we do with the use of our traditional proverbs which is said to be the oil with which we eat words.

We also intend to bring to listeners as from October, 1981 a new programme titled Images and Rhythm — a programme of Cultural Portrait of the people of Nigeria. We shall go to different parts of the Country in order to bring you stories about people and places of this land as it affects our culture.

"IN MY DAYS" is another programme produced by this section. This is a programme in which elderly and experienced personalities look back into the past. The idea is to high-

Radio Nigeria - 2 Please Note

Due to some outside wave frequencies, it is becoming rather discouraging and disappointing to stay tuned and listen to Radio Nigeria 2 Programmes.

The wave frequency in question according to my observations and what I picked up from the frequency, I think it is a communication wave frequency and in most cases after the interruptions, the station goes off the air.

I nearly burst with anger when one of my favourite programmes Reggae time fell a victim.

Will the authorities please do something about this and also check the background noise.

More Time To Soccer

Nigeria Green Eagles

MAY I be allowed a space in your Radio/TV Times to express my views on the popular programme "Soccer" which comes up every Sunday after 9 O'Clock Network News. I observed that N.T.A., Channel 10 does not make use of the 90 minutes duration, meant for the Brazilian soccer matches.

Nigerians develop their keen interest in sports under the leadership of a Brazilian coach, Prof. Otto Gloria. Why then can't N.T.A. give priority to the Brazilian soccer by making use of the 90 minutes duration.

May I also suggest that old films of Pele in his different matches and World Cup series which involved Brazil and other countries be shown in order to give our footballers the opportunity to discover themselves and learn more of the Brazilian tactics.

Wrestling For Wednesday

I AM a regular reader of your Journal, Radio/TV Times, and a keen viewer of the American Championship wrestling, a popular slot on NTA Lagos every Saturday. As a wrestling fan, I congratulate N.T.A. for making it possible for wrestling enthusiasts to watch the programme.

DESPITE NEPA interruptions, wrestling is superb and I would like it to be extended to wednesdays, at 9.45p.m.

It's Disturbing

I AM a regular reader of your magazine Radio/TV Times and a panellist on Radio Nigeria - 2. Break in transmission is now the order of the day on Radio Nigeria - 2.

Each time I tune to AM FM stereo I feel disturbed with the frequent break in transmissions. Is all the fault from NEPA?

The authorities concerned should find immediate solution to this disturbing issue.

REFUGEES IN AFRICA

-World Bodies Poised To Solve The Problem

By Joe Lartey

HALF the world's 10 million refugees are in Africa. United Nations statistics show that a little over a decade ago, the refugee population in Africa stood at 750,000. The figure has risen dramatically, and now stands at five million. All indications are that the figure is still rising. Clearly the refugee issue is one of the greatest problems facing the continent of Africa today.

It is in an attempt to find additional aid for solving this nagging problem, that the United Nations High Commission for Refugees and the Organisation of African Unity, jointly sponsored the International Conference on Assistance to Refugees in Africa. The venue for the two-day conference was the Palais de Justice in Geneva and in attendance were Government Ministers and their civil servants, concerned officials from voluntary agencies, and representatives of the world press.

Significantly, all the Eastern bloc countries except Yugoslavia boycotted the conference on the grounds that the refugee problem is a by-product of decolonisation. A senior Nigerian official of the OAU is reported to have described the boycott as an unfriendly act towards Africa.

In contrast, the Swedes, the West Germans, the French and interestingly the Chinese were among those who attended. Britain's minister of Overseas Development, who was at the year of the Refugee in Sudan meeting in Khartoum last year, was also in Geneva. The Geneva conference then was in the main, a Western bloc show, which brought into bold relief, the traditional poor performance of the Soviet Union, in matters bordering on charity.

Be that as it may, the International Conference on Assistance to Refugees was by all reckonings, a great success. A total of 322 million naira was pledged to help the estimated five million refugees in Africa. This figure falls short to the 863 million Naira

Mr Kurt Waldheim UN Sec Gen

While attempts are being made to raise funds, African governments would be well advised to steer clear of policies and actions, which may tend to enlarge the army of refugees on the continent. The Organisation of African Unity should step up its activities, in settling border disputes and crises all of which tend to escalate the African refugee problem.

estimated by the OAU, as the minimum required, to tackle the problem effectively. Nevertheless, countries made pledges at the conference.

One of the principal donors was the United States of America. She has promised to give 164 million Naira over two years, subject to congressional approval. West Germany pledged 20 million Naira, Saudi Arabia, Canada, Japan and Britain also offered substantial amounts. The United Nations Secretary-General Dr. Kurt Waldheim who chaired the Geneva conference, warned that it might be some time, before the promised aid could be properly analysed, and new and existing aid programmes coordinated.

Although African representatives at the conference would have preferred that aid programmes be executed through United Nations agencies, the donor countries voted for bilateral arrangements; that is, on the basis of each country's needs. In this regard the countries that are bearing the brunt of the refugee crisis are: Somalia, Sudan, Zaire, Cameroun, Tanzania and Uganda.

Nigeria also has a fairly large but unspecified number of refugees within its boundaries especially those fleeing from Chad, and the Federal government is doing all it can to provide for their safety and comfort. On the whole, suffering refugees in Africa are products of underlying problems like apartheid, political repression, ideological intolerance and drought. By and large there is an urgent need for a solution to the refugee problem in Africa.

Movement To New Capital Set For 1982

By Tunde Bakare

THE LATEST measure taken by the Ministry for Federal Capital Territory, for the movement of the seat of the Federal Government to Abuja, before the end of 1982, is the take-over of the administration of the Capital Territory from the States and Local Governments from where the territory was excised. The States affected are Niger, Kwara and Plateau. Since the take-over, the Ministry has created seven development areas, for the effective administration of the territory, right down the grassroots level.

One of the aims of setting up the development areas, is for even provision of social and basic facilities and 'infrastructure, so as to improve the quality of life of the inhabitants of the Territory. Another purpose is to allay the fears and doubts of the people living in the towns and villages within the Federal Capital Territory, about their rights and privileges, so that they can be given more assurance of living comfortably like their fellow Nigerians, in other states of the Federation.

Already, administrative secretaries have been appointed for each development area, to co-ordinate the activities of the Local Communities with the Federal Capital Development Authority. Other steps embarked upon is the establishment of area committees. This is for the effective participation of the inhabitants in the day-to-day administration of the Territory.

In order to pursue the Federal Government's determination to uphold the integrity of traditional rulers, the Ministry for Federal Capital Territory has allowed all district and village Heads, as well as Community leaders, to continue to perform their cultural and traditional functions within the Territory without any interference. Their remunerations have been reviewed and improved, with effect from the first of April this year.

Also the services of state and local government officials in the areas affected by the Federal Capital, have been retained by the Ministry on secondment for a period of two years as from the first of January this year.

For the maintenance of Law and Order as well as the safety of lives and property of the inhabitants, a Police Command has been established in the Federal Capital Territory, headed by a Commissioner of Police, Alhaji Mamman Nasarawa. It is also expected that within the next few months, necessary arrangements would be completed to provide various other services such as the motor Licensing Office, Vehicle Inspection Unit, High Court and Customary Courts for the Territory.

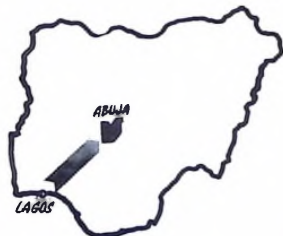

On physical planning, development projects for the new capital have been divided into various phases. First on the list of priorities is the accelerated development Area, which is the Federal Capital City. In this area, the building of thousands of housing units has begun. Work on primary and post-primary schools as well as other social infrastructure are also in progress.

Already, a number of Day Secondary Schools have started to operate at Gwagwalada, Karshi and other headquarters of the Development areas. Other projects under construction in the Accelerated Area, are the supply of electricity from the Kainji Dam, which will be supplemented by the supply of power from the Hydro-Electric Dam at Shiroro and the North Dam both in Niger State.

Feasibility survey and soil tests have been completed on other major projects. Land have been cleared and construction work started on the Presidential Guest House for the Head of State, and that of the Vice-President, including the building of the National Assembly and the five-star Hotel Complex.

Contract will be awarded soon for the building of the 20-storey National Studios and offices of Radio Nigeria headquarters at Wuse. Work on the project is expected to be completed before the end of September next year. All these show that a lot is being done, to meet the September 1982 deadline, for the movement of the seat of the Federal Government, to Abuja.

Love Me Now

Ulaeto's Collection Of Pop And Folk Songs

Martha Ulaeto

MARTHA ULAETO'S 'LOVE ME NOW' has taken the music scene by surprise. It arrives at a time when most critics hardly believe Ulaeto's operatic voice could offer the Nigerian market the type of music that would keep them spell bound.

"LOVE ME NOW", cut on the Skylark Records label, is a nine-track folks-rhythmical piece and the album clearly strikes out as Ulaeto's greatest achievement in the musical scene.

One finds almost everything about this album satisfying, except the glaringly flat lead-voice which keeps nosing out of a blanket of harmonic chorus voices in "Where Have You Been?" The compelling consolation, however, is its taunting rhythmic beat—the inclination to shuffle the feet is ever present and haunting.

"LOVE Me Now is a collection of straight-jacket pop and cultural folk.

One finds a listener to the album hooked with the folk tracks—possibly for their more appealing instrumentation and haunting vocals. DA Y'AMI (meaning "stand by me"), a near reggae piece, and BBIET IDUNG (meaning "home place"), a beautiful calypso, score top marks. NNE, NNE, NNE (meaning mother, mother, mother) is equally close to the heart, although it is not as appealing as the other two.

There are indeed other tasty moments in the album—sauced with enough cocktail funk to cater for many tastes. From the strong rhythms of the opening cut NII EWEB', one easily knows what to expect. All through the tracks, Ulaeto's silvery voice maintains an excellent form—and the right rhythms remain constant and mellow.

Praises for all the fascinating musical background which contributes to most of the valuable colouring to the tracks, goes to Papa (drums/percussion), Randy (bass), Mike Phillips (guitars), George Lee (tenor/sax alto/sax/flute) and Godfrey Wang (piano/synthesizers). Lee's sax clearly steals the show whenever it gets the chance to rear out its head. A critical look at the mix, however, shows that a lot of work went into making everything sound as though it were filtered through a concrete bunker.

The production is superb—Producer Akie Deen proves his mettle, deftly dovetailing elaborate arrangements with the Instrumental section and with out losing either detail or vocal imaginativeness and feel. This makes 'Love Me Now' a sensational album. Generally, it has a strong dancing appeal.

Adult Education

Success Depends On All

By Emma Okorie.

FOR A long time in this country, formal education was the preserve of a few Nigerians who either had the means or enjoyed the sponsorship of institutions like governments and missionary organisations. The consequence has been the prevalence of adults who can neither read nor write. For these Nigerians, their contribution to the society at large and even self-improvement has to a great extent been limited.

It was to rectify this situation that the government took a number of measures to step up adult and non-formal education. In fact, as enshrined in section 18 of our Constitution, one of our educational objectives is to eradicate illiteracy through among other things, the provision of free literacy programme for our adults.

In detail, this calls for functional literacy education for adults who have never had the advantage of any formal education as well as remedial education for those young people who prematurely dropped out of the formal school system. A third category includes the provision of further education for those who had benefitted from formal education. This is to improve their basic knowledge and skill. And for those already working, the objective is to provide in-service on the job, vocational professional training for them.

In terms of concrete programmes, it is evident that state governments, local education authorities and voluntary agencies organise evening classes in both urban and rural areas for young people and adults both at various levels.

At the secondary level, there has been a big expansion of courses leading to the G.C.E. and R.S.A. examinations at both ordinary and advanced levels. This expansion has been promoted mainly by University Extension Services and State Ministries of Education. Private enterprises have also played a leading role while a new continuing Education Centres provide academic, professional and vocational education in our towns and cities.

Technical evening classes and vocational improvement centres also exist for adults but these services need to be expanded urgently. In 1974, the Federal Ministry of Education in a bid to underscore the importance of adult and non-formal education and co-ordinate developments in this area, established the Adult Education Unit which later became the vocational and Non-Formal Education Unit.

In addition, to data collection and dissemination of Information, the section is actively engaged in organising seminars and workshops for the training of adult education personnel.

The department in conjunction with state governments also undertakes pilot experimental projects in functional literacy. Furthermore, the Federal Government is gearing up efforts to launch a ten-year National Mass Literacy campaign in July next year.

At the same time, a specially designed literacy survey is being arranged for all the states to identify the target population and existing resources in personnel, materials and facilities. That apart, a special training programme to prepare top and middle level adult education personnel specifically for the campaign takes off next October. Above all, is the commitment of the present administration to start an Open University at the beginning of next session.

While these plans are being made, it is desirable to ensure that the textbooks are relevant to our experiences and written by our own people. In addition, immediate action should be taken to establish libraries in all nooks and corners of the Federation to ensure that library facilities and services are within the reach of all adult learners.

A training centre in Lagos - On the job experience helps to boost workers morale.

Television and radio being effective modern tools for communication, should have a channel each reserved exclusively for educational programmes. In the end, when literate adults have been produced, they should be duly recognised and given gainful employment.

Now that our strategy for the pursuit of adult and non-formal education has been clearly defined, it will require the co-operation of the people with the policy makers to ensure the success of the programme.
