Preface

It gives me great pleasure to present, on behalf of the National Universities Commission (NUC), the 3rd Edition of the NUC Nigerian University System (NUS) Statistical Digest of data on University education in Nigeria. This is the third in the series since NUC re-started collecting, collating and publishing statistics of Nigerian Universities from 2017. This edition provides more detailed information on the Universities by increasing the number of variables, as well as inclusion of statistics of autonomous institutions affiliated to Nigerian Universities to offer degrees of the affiliate parent Universities.

Out of the 170 Universities in the NUS, four did not provide data! These Universities are: Gombe State University of Science and Technology, Kumo; Moshood Abiola University of Science & Technology, Abeokuta; Southwestern University, Okun Owa; and Westland University, Iwo. NUC shall take all necessary steps to ensure that all Universities provide data for the next edition, without fail.

The 2017 and 2018 editions provided data by University and gender on: enrolment, graduate output, staffing, etc. In this edition, the fields have been expanded to include: enrolment (undergraduate and postgraduate) by levels, by programmes, by disciplines; new entrants by level, by programme, by disciplines; graduate output (undergraduate and postgraduate) by class of degree, by programme and by discipline. Others are: academic staff by rank by programme, by discipline and non-academic staff by rank in academic and non-academic units. Additionally, collated data were ranked by number and by gender, as applicable, to make data presentation more logical and scientific. A total of 2,159,461 students are enrolled directly by the NUS at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels through full-time and part-time modes, out of which 931,523 (43.1%) are females.

There are 114 affiliations involving 105 Affiliate Institutions (Polytechnics, Colleges of Education, Religious Institutes, Specialized Institutions), which offer degree programmes in affiliation to 23 Nigerian Universities. Of the 105 affiliate institutions, 72 provided statistical data for this edition. The data from the affiliate institutions covers their enrolments, new entrants, graduate output, and academic staffing. A total of 78,761 students are enrolled by Affiliate Institutions at both undergraduate and postgraduate levels, out of which 39,015 (49.5%) are females.

I sincerely thank all Vice-Chancellors, Directors of Academic Planning and Directors of Information and Communications Technology of Nigerian Universities, as well as head of Affiliate Institutions for their cooperation and commitment to making this edition a success amid the COVID-19 pandemic. Lastly, I thank the Acting Director of the Directorate of Research, Innovation and Information Technology, NUC, and all his colleagues at the Directorate that participated in the collection, collation, compilation, and production of this edition.

Chapter 8 – ICT Infrastructure and Services In Universities

8.0 Preamble

The engine of teaching, learning and research in a University is oiled by quality infrastructure and services, notably power infrastructure, ICT infrastructure, road network, and water supply. This chapter reports statistics on some components of ICT infrastructure and services. These are PC availability, Wi-Fi availability, and staff use of technology to deliver teaching.

Chapter 9 – Efficiency

9.0 Preamble

This chapter measures some parameters indicative of the efficiency of Nigerian Universities. It covers average time (in weeks) for issuance of academic transcript from application to University, average turnaround time of mails (in days) initiated within the University, average turnaround time of mails (in days) initiated outside the University, number of weeks of disruption to academic calendar, and number of weeks before release of examination results.

Chapter 10 – Funding the Nigerian University System in 2019

10.0 Preamble

With the rising cost of goods and services, it is increasingly becoming more expensive to run Universities. Most Nigerian public Universities survive on the funding provided by their owners as they do not charge fees. The fees paid by students in private Universities, as high as some may seem, in most cases do not cover the full amount these Universities need to keep running; thus, the cost is still being augmented by the owners.

The major sources of funding for Nigerian Universities are governments (Federal and States), faith based organisations (mostly churches and Islamic organisations) and a few private businesses/non-profit organisations. The bulk of these monies are spent on staff salaries/benefits; infrastructure like buildings, roads, etc.; research and teaching activities (including field trips, conferences and publications); and humongous overheads which ranges from provision of municipal services like water, electricity, gardening, sanitary services, security, transportation, etc.

In this chapter, where data provided by the Universities were adjudged wrong, such data is not published and is marked as (-).

Chapter 15 – Academic Staffing In Affiliate Institutions

15.0 Preamble

Academic staffing in Affiliate Institutions is considered the most important attribute indicating the quality of academic programmes offered by these Institutions. Given that Affiliate Institutions do not use similar ranking of academic staff with their Parent Universities, the highest academic qualifications of academic staff involved in teaching affiliate degree programme was adopted as the best parameter to assess. The academic staff in Affiliate Universities by PhD, Masters and First degree as highest qualifications is presented by Affiliate Institution, by Programme and by Discipline.
