Youngest Voice On Radio Bendel

THE youngest star ever, really the youngest but impressive presenter, on Radio Bendel ferment has emerged. She is the 13-year old Caroline Elo Okpei, a class one student at Idia Okpai, a class one student at Idia College, Benin City, Bendel State.

Caro was spotted early this year by Evelyn Atubeh while scouting round for a suitable presenter to take on junior Request. One would have expected that a girl of her age would be shy or would develop some microphone fright on being asked to speak into the microphone for a voice test for the first time, but Caro proved everyone wrong. She succeeded in a mock recording test to determine her suitability and was immediately put on the programme.

As regards the success she has made of the programme, just tune on Radio Bendel every Saturday at 9.30 a.m. when for 30 minutes the young but captivating voice of Caro keeps you spell-bound.

Caroline is the second of the six children of Mr and Mrs. Charles Okpei. Her father is himself a producer with Radio Bendel. She seems to have learnt it all from the father.

Apart from reading which is Caro's major hobby, she loves sports and singing.

UNIVERSITY RADIO DESERVES A VOICE

ALLOCATING radio frequencies to our Universities' mass communication departments could mark a turning point in the history of the country's broadcasting. I support Wole Awo-diya's article titled 'Radio Unilag wanted' published in the June 1981 issue of R.T.V.T.

The necessity for a University radio lies with the fact that mass communication students could have practical ideals, being exposed to listeners outside their campuses.

Through this radio, more could be known about the goings-on in our Universities in terms of researches, inventions and what have you. And the university radio will no doubt be a great asset to students, especially secondary school students.

I am therefore suggesting that the university radio be given a voice.

LETTERS

AS a regular reader of the Radio/TV, Times, I wish to express my feelings about the attitude of some NTA cameramen when directing some programmes. YOUTH Scene is one of the affected and mix the whole programme together in the process, they tend to strain one's eyes.

SOMETHING should be done about this fault and quickly, too.

Why The Change?

I would like to use this medium to suggest to the Alawada Group (Baba - using Yoruba as their old style of gauge on stage.

THE present style whereby the group mixes the pidgin English with Yoruba does not fit in on stage, it would save them time and embarrassment if they stick to their old style.

IF Baba-Sala thinks he can win the hearts of his audience by mixing pidgin English with Yoruba, he had better changed his mind before it is too late, because he won't satisfy non Yoruba speaking audience either.

That Cover Girl

Miss Hanatu Sanusi

I understand that your Cover girl for May 1981 Radio TV Times, though wearing a seeming innocent look, is a producer, Women and children, yet she is a 'Miss'. How very unfortunate!

By the way, how many of each has she produced so far?

YOU seem to have read our caption upside down, Mr. Onwuneme. The cover girl under reference is Miss Hanatu Sanusi, Producer of "Women and Children Programme" and NOT "Producer of Women and Children" as you sarcastically put it. The operative word is "Programme".

More Articles Please

AS A regular reader of the Radio/TV, Times, I must say that I like the style and the way the articles are being dish out by our experts in their various fields. Example is the "October Lectures". But recently I observed that such interesting articles, very educative of course, are now giving way to TV and Radio Programmes.

I suggest you eliminate some of the Radio Station programmes but try it much as possible to select them from North, East and West Zones including FRCN zones, to create space for more of these educative articles.

CODE OF CONDUCT

—Private Sector Needs One

By Emma Okorie.

ONE thing that has become glaring in Nigeria over the past years is that the attainment of our political, economic, and social objectives as a nation revolves to a great extent around the conduct of the individual.

Where the individual identifies himself with the programme of the nation, a solid foundation is prepared for peace and progress. On the other hand, where individuals position themselves against the over-all objectives of the people, the resultant effects are chaos, uneven development and acrimony.

It is in the attempt to raise the nation above the individual that we have in the public sector, the institutional framework for ordering behaviour. There are rules and regulations which include Civil Service Rules, the Guidelines on Administrative procedure and various circulars and directives. That apart, we have enshrined in the 1979 constitution a provision for an institution to check the conduct of public officers.

Known as the Code of Conduct Bureau, its function is to receive and store relevant information about public officers. Such information can be produced when required for inspection by any citizen of Nigeria.

The Code places specific restrictions on public officers. One of them is that the public officer should not put himself in a position where his personal interest conflicts with his duties and responsibilities. Another is that no public officer should receive or be paid the emolument of an public office at the same time as he is paid the emoluments of any public office.

Furthermore, the public officer is restricted from engaging in the management or running of any private business, profession or trade. And for certain categories of public officers which include the President and Vice-president, Governors, and Ministers, the operation of a foreign account is prohibited.

What it all boils down to is that as far as the public sector is concerned, there are adequate checks and balances to control the conduct of public servants or officers. Such checks however are practically non-existent in the private sector. This is the crux of the matter raised by the Secretary to the Federal Government. One of the few regulations binding people in the private sector is the Tax Clearance Certificate. Without it, the businessman may be denied the award of contract, licences, foreign exchange and the approval of Form M. Importation papers. Such subtle provisions compel the man in the private sector to be up-to-date with his tax.

As the Secretary to the Federal Government had noted, however, some of our national ills can be traced directly to the indiscipline and unpatriotism of our fellow citizens in the private sector. He referred to profiteering which is going on with reckless abandon. He also drew the attention of the nation to the fact that rarely can one find a Nigerian Company specialising in one area. A construction company at the same time deals in frozen fish, beer, poultry, milk and motor cars. He also spoke of excessively loaded contracts and astronomical fees being charged. What seems to be painful is the way the amount realised from the wide profit margin is ostentatiously spent and used to corrupt those who ordinarily would have been honest public servants.

The time has come therefore for the private sector to maintain a code of conduct. Professional bodies which had set for their members rules and regulations for proper conduct should apply them to the latter.

The achievement of our political, economic and social objectives, depends as much on the private sector as on the public sector. Any measure like the establishment of a code of conduct, that would augment the gains in the public sector is therefore worth giving a trial.

Self-Help Projects

-Means Of Pooling People's Resources

By Egberj Gray.

SOME political leaders have on the recent past been stressing the importance of viable self help projects in various local communities. For example, while speaking at a civil reception in Ikot-Esu, Senator Joseph Ansa representing the Calabar Senatorial Constituency of the Cross River State called on the people of the area to place greater emphasis on self help projects.

Also in Sokoto, State Governor Shehu Kangiwa made the same call recently. He even noted that a people who do not rely on themselves for developmental purposes are invariably retarding the progress of their local community.

This is not the first time the importance of self ventures in the growth and development of the nation would be emphasised. While the calls have a ring of familiarity, they sound a note that underscores our national policy of economic self-reliance.

The various welcome addresses read to visiting political leaders are continuously replete with demands for social amenities such as schools, hospitals, town or community halls and civil centres. The demands are usually similar all over the country.

The point usually missed in the making of such demands is that the resources of government are not capable of satisfying all the needs of the various communities, at the same time. There is therefore the tendency to view the failure to meet some community needs as a deliberate neglect of the areas concerned.

The fact is that government is the collective venture of all citizens. This makes it imperative that the people should satisfy some of their needs without necessarily looking up to the government.

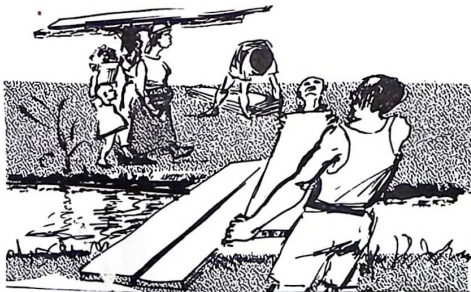

The initiation of self-help projects is commonly accepted concept throughout the federation. There are numerous development projects which were originally embarked upon through communal self-help before they were eventually taken over and completed by government. In the area of education for instance, it can be stated that some of the best known schools in the country were initially opened by communities through self-help efforts.

It is not that this commendable spirit is no longer prevalent. But the fact which we must not run away from is that the tendency to look up to the various governments of the Federation for the satisfaction of every communal need is now much greater. This can be attributed to the erroneous impression that government has unlimited resources to satisfy all the needs of the people.

As a matter of fact, communities which embark on viable self-help projects usually attract government's attention and assistance. This is because by deciding to help themselves they indirectly draw the attention of those in authority to the over-riding need for the projects concerned. This apart, government is more likely to come to the aid of such communities when the projects in question have already been started.

The point that needs to be emphasised at all times is that the doctrine of self reliance underscores the need to pool the collective and individual resources of the people for the provision of necessary economic and social amenities. The impact of such efforts is felt more at the local levels because that is the area in which they make an impression on the lives of the ordinary people.

SMUGGLING

—New Move To Curb The Crime

By Atlade Atoyabi

THERE was a time, when Nigeria was an importer of just anything — from heavy machinery to ordinary tooth pick. But we soon realised that a laissez-faire policy on importation of goods was not in the best interest of our national economy. Such a policy was in conflict with the national objective of economic self-reliance. It ran counter to the goal of making this country one of the most industrialized nation in Africa.

For these reasons, the government introduced a number of restrictive measures. While a number of goods were banned completely, some others were placed on licence. Because the economic situations in the country is not static, there has been a constant review of the goods that must fall in any of the two categories.

However, this policy has not solved the problems it was designed to deal with. For one thing, there is a general impression that our borders are too porous to contain the activities of smugglers.

As a matter of fact, smuggling has become a full-time work for those who are cashing in on import restriction to flood the market with the very goods that have been banned. Because they escape payment of duties and other levies, they found the illegal act as an avenue to make quick profit.

By so doing, some foreign goods are simply being dumped on our markets. Also, some locally manufactured goods have been squeezed out of the market. The factories producing them have either folded up or are barely managing to survive. One immediate consequence of this on the national economy is that thousands of people have been thrown out of job while the future for many is presently uncertain. The families and dependants of those concerned are equally facing a bleak future.

Some of these firms now under pressure, are not taking the matter lying down. A few of them have put up advertisements drawing the attention of the nation to the extent to which smuggling has wrecked their business.

This is already drawing the sympathy of the government. For example, the Minister of Commerce has recently announced measures to protect the Battery Industry. What is also gratifying to note is that for sometime the Federal Government has been studying the situation in a more comprehensive manner. A recent disclosure by the Minister of Finance shows that the government has now resolved to try new initiatives aimed at curbing smuggling.

One of the steps being contemplated is the review of operation of private jetties. Their number will be reduced and conditions laid down for those remaining to follow. Furthermore, the government is planning to construct five inland container depots with adequate facilities for the inspection of containers.

In respect of cars, a special form has been prescribed as one of the conditions to be fulfilled before a car can be registered. Public enlightenment campaign on the effects of smuggling on the economy as well as constant raids on culprits are additional measures to be intensified.

While these, along with other steps, are being taken, a commonly expressed opinion is that the men of the Board of Customs and Excise should for once use their ingenuity to track down the big time smugglers who are like the proverbial camels regularly passing through the eye of the needle.

It will certainly take the efforts of the Customs officials, the Police and the cooperation of members of the public to stem the present widespread criminal act of smuggling.

DRUG QUALITY CONTROL

By Roy Agu-Alusi

THE two-day workshop on drug quality control was organised by the Quality Control Committee of the West African Pharmaceutical Federation. The Federation was set up in 1976 as an agency of the West African Health Community. Participants were drawn from the pharmaceutical industries, government agencies responsible for drug registration and the Universities in Ghana, Liberia and the host country, Nigeria.

The workshop is significant for many reasons. First and foremost, it reflects a continual search for quality and excellence in the drugs and allied pharmaceutical products. This is with particular reference to West Africa.

As developing countries, West African States depend on imports for their supply of drugs and other health care products. In fact, Nigeria which has even more advanced manufacturing industry than the rest of her neighbours, still imports about 90% of her requirements of drugs.

The situation has its repercussions. One of these is that the West African market has, like most of the Third World countries, become a dumping ground for expired drugs and, sometimes, drugs that have been banned in countries of origin.

The World Health Organisation

(WHO) has already complained that most drugs meant for export to the developing countries are not always subjected to the same level of quality assurance as those produced for the domestic market.

In Nigeria, efforts to combat this situation have resulted in the setting up of the Food and Drugs Administration by the Federal Government in 1974. Furthermore, the Federal Government insists that no drug which is not used in the country of origin will be marketed in Nigeria. All this is welcome news but there are other areas of the pharmaceutical industry that demand attention.

It is common knowledge, for example, that, as a result of proliferation, most drugs sold in the West African market have no relevance to the desired patterns and needs of the people. This fact was stressed at the workshop.

According to one of the participants, Dr. Femi Adebajo of the University of Ife, "there is an urgent need to reduce the number of drugs circulating in the sub-region in general and in Nigeria in particular. This will involve some centralisation of control similar to the Egyptian case in the early 1970's, when over 20,000 drugs were reduced to 3,700. Our picture of over 17,000 drugs in Nigeria can be reduced to some 2,000 by centralisation."

An effective solution to these problems calls for a closer co-operation between the governments of the West African States and the pharmaceutical industries in the area. Unfortunately, a strong base for this does not appear to exist as of now.

For example, the West African Pharmaceutical Federation is made up of only the English-speaking West African States. Their French-speaking counterparts which took part in the inauguration of the organisation in 1976 have since backed out and all efforts* to get them to return to the fold have proved abortive. The result is that with the large-scale movement of men and materials, accompanied by high rate of smuggling in the sub-region, any effort by one state or a group of states to fight the problem of drug quality control and abuse will be thwarted by inactivity in neighbouring States.

In the circumstance, there is need for the West African Pharmaceutical Federation to be strengthened and accorded due recognition by the governments of the sub-region. To this end, it should be fully incorporated into the programme of the Economic Community of West African States (ECOWAS).

There's need for ECOWAS to recognise West African Pharmaceutical Federation.

TOLULOPE

TITLE OF BOOK: TOLULOPE
 AUTHOR: ANJI OSSAI
 PUBLISHER: THOMAS NELSON & SONS LTD
 PAGES: 106
 PRICE: N1.07k
 REVIEWER: GABRIEL EGBE

TOLULOPE is the story of a young girl growing up in Ibadan, Nigeria and caught between the exciting lifestyle of her boyfriend, and her stern father's disapproval.

Tolu's father, Mr. Babalola, is a strict disciplinarian who wouldn't have his daughter got mixed up with children he considers spoilt. As such, he restricts Tolu's movements strictly to the home and her school. Mrs. Babalola, Tolu's mother, also has special interest in her daughter.

On her part, Tolu has that driving force inside her to escape from her father's bondage to enjoy the freedom of the world outside. She was not particularly brilliant at school, and she hated taking examinations.

When Tolu was invited to a party by Kemi, her newly discovered friend, she saw it as an opportunity to break away from her father's stranglehold, so as to have a taste of social life. At the party, Tolu met and fell in love with Tunde whom she eventually decided to marry.

Tunde had a notorious friend called Paul, who was disliked by Kemi and her mother. Tunde and Tolu planned their next meeting soon after he had dropped her at home after the party. That day, Tolu had the beating of her life from her father. Prior to this incident, Tolu's mother had deserted her husband for cruelty to her and her daughter. However, Tolu was determined to see Tunde again to inform him about marriage, but surprisingly he told her to forget all about him.

At this point, something happened. Tolu's father told her about his plans to get her married to one Mr. Jewando. She took it as the end of her association with her father. So, she declined the offer and walked into the night to the warm embrace of Tunde who had recently changed his mind. He escorted her to a waiting car, inside which were Kemi and her mother Mrs. Ojo, who advised Tolu to go back to school, and continue her studies, but she would not agree to the plan, nor was she prepared to return to her father. All Tolu wanted was to go home and live with Tunde.

It was at the point that Mr. Babalola intercepted them, but Mrs. Ojo told Mr. Babalola to call another day as she would report to the police that his daughter was in her care. She gave him her indentify card, and they bid one another farewell, with Tolu breathing a sigh of relief. "Oh! thank God I thought he was going to be difficult," she remarked.

One would have expected the story to continue further, and not to end with that remark by Tolu. At least, Mr. Babalola would have taken away his daughter as of right, if he didn't create any scene.

Anji Ossai made good use of familiar words and names such as, Iri-kefe, Shade and Francis Agbada. This technique gives one a sense of belonging and spurs the reader on and on. But Ossai, like some modern authors, makes no effective use of reported speech in his writing, making it difficult for the reader to know who is speaking to whom.

Tolulope as a novel brings to light the happenings in real life. We have actually seen cases of children of very strict parents absconding from home to explore possibilities outside; some of them ending up as prostitutes or criminals.

One lesson the book teaches is that we should not be over-strict about our children's movements. We should give them a measure of freedom to discover themselves, as well as educate them on the ups and downs of life. On the whole 'Tolulope', written in simple straight forward English, is a commendable attempt at novel writing by a relatively unknown writer like Anji Ossai.

Airport Missing Luggage

—Touts, Syndicate To Be Flushed Out

By Andy Anarado

ONE of the major problems bedeviling air travel in the country today is that of missing cargo at our airports. For any air traveller, nothing could be more distressing than to miss or lose his luggage because no amount of monetary compensation could adequately compensate him for the inconvenience or embarrassment that arise in such situations.

The issue of missing luggage is not new in civil aviation operations, especially within major international airports with split minute landings and take-offs. But incidents of lost luggage seem to be increasing at an uncomfortable rate in the country with stealing and pilfering becoming a regular feature at our airports.

In the past few weeks, passengers returning or travelling through the airports, especially the international ports have fallen victim of anti-social elements who have been operating with impunity at the airports.

These elements usually operating as touts or as part of a syndicate, have created doubts in the minds of passengers and done considerable damage to the international image our airport authorities and the Nigeria Airways have been trying to uphold over the years. From records, the activities of airport thieves do not end at the conveyor belt stage, but extend to the warehouse.

In spite of all the security measures initiated by the Airport Authority, the activities of these rogues have continued to thrive. Their presence is conspicuously felt at restaurants as well as departure and arrival wings of the airports.

But the most disheartening aspect of the situation is that the activities of these people are carried out right under the nose of those who were recruited and paid with public money to enforce security at the airports and to protect property and cargo. In fact it is due to the collaboration of these insiders at our airports that the missing luggage problem has assumed its present dimension.

At present, three major Government Agencies, the Nigeria Airways, the Airports Authority and the Nigerian Cargo Handling Company are largely involved in operations at the airports. What this means is that it remains their collective responsibility to ensure that sanity returns to these sectors of service.

The challenge of control and checks strictly fall on their shoulders and what amount of confidence they establish among the air travelling public would be to their collective credit. In an attempt to create the desired healthy atmosphere, the first step should be to carry out an internal purging exercise to improve the level of integrity and honesty of their personnel.

Another possible remedy could be the issuing of identity cards which must be displayed to officials to eliminate impersonation by anti-social elements. Following this, the problem of touts and their syndicates could be tackled.

With the current measures of restricting movement of unauthorised vehicles within the airports operational areas, it does seem as if the Airport Authorities are now taking decisive steps. The exercise must go the whole length if the menace at the airports, resulting in missing luggage and illegal operations is to be eliminated.

NEWS COMMENTARY IN EDO/IGALA

RADIO Nigeria, Ibadan Zone started from 1 May 1981 to relay its programmes on two different channels - Radio 1 and Radio - 2.

Radio 1 is transmitted on Short-wave frequency and broadcasts in five different languages. These are Edo, Urhobo, Yoruba, Igala and English.

Radio - 2 transmits on the medium wave frequency in Yoruba and English. It is intended mainly for listeners in Ibadan and its environ.

To help our readers tune to the appropriate frequencies on which these stations operate, we publish elsewhere two types of schedules meant for each of the channels.

OUR RATE CARD

For Your Effective Advertising

AFTER years of quiet circulation during which a systematic study was undertaken to ascertain readers' tastes and advertisers' requirements, we are proud to present today a magazine which, we hope, has successfully translated into form your highly esteemed ideas and suggestions.

The current editions of RADIO/TV TIMES reveal a history of steady progress and improvement in quality, standard and scope. In fact there is every ground now for one to say "Oh Yes! The RADIO/TV TIMES has made it." We are not stopping at that either.

We have more reasons than many a publisher to cry over "INFLATION" and rising production costs. But where "Satisfaction First" (for readers and advertisers) is the over-riding principle, profit occupies only the next place in our polity.

This explains why, in spite of the extremely keen competition in the field of commercial advertising, RADIO/TV TIMES can still afford to accept advertisement at a rate below one kobo to reach one thousand readers. What is more, when you consider the aggregate positive effect of an advertisement in RADIO/TV TIMES, supplementing your combinations on radio and television, the resultant massive impact is quite obvious.

The advertisement rates tabulated below took effect from 1st of April, 1977. We look forward to your substantial patronage as soon as possible, while assuring you of prompt satisfaction always.

i. THE JOURNAL: The "Radio/TV Times" is the monthly programme journal covering all the radio and television stations, published by the Federal Radio Corporation. The journal is now 25 years old on the market. As a supplementary guide to programmes' schedule, the readership of this journal is understandably tied up with the radio and television audience — a well balanced cross-section of the society, representative of all ages, sexes, income brackets, intellectual levels and tastes. That the current size of this audience has grown into millions is now common knowledge.

Apart from highlighting Radio/TV programmes, the journal seeks to generate public interest in healthy social events, as well as local, national and international issues, with emphasis on Africa. But while taking in its strides the wide range of programmes offered by the radio and television, "Radio/TV Times" is reaking new grounds of its own to embrace a wider range of interests in order to provide greater satisfaction for its ever expanding readership.

Public demand for the "Radio/TV Times" in recent times has been so extensive that the possibility of stepping up the current circulation in stages to keep pace ultimately with the radio and television audience is being actively explored.

ii. PUBLICATION TIMING: 1st day of month of issue.
