Judge's recipe on presidential system

HOPE OF THE COMMON MAN

by Tongha Fiubode

THE hope of the common man under a presidential system of government in post-military Nigerian politics lies in an independent Judiciary and a free Press.

This was the view expressed by the Chief Judge of Imo State, Mr Justice C. A. Oputa while delivering a lecture titled: "The Place and Role of the Judiciary in our Society" at the Port Harcourt City Council hall at the weekend.

Mr Justice Oputa criticised the misconception that the Judiciary was an arm of the Ministry of Justice, saying that the misconception "negates and falsifies the equally radical and important doctrine of separation of powers".

As the agency charged with the defence of the Constitution, the Judiciary, he said, should be independent so as to uphold its enactments and to declare null and void any legislation politically perverted to perpetrate "social, racial or sex oppression".

"They must be completely independent" with nothing to influence or control them, but God and their consciences".

The courts, he said, had the duty to adjudicate upon the legality of the exercise of executive power while the Judiciary had to ensure that state "is subject to the law and that the government respects the rights of the individual under the law."

Mr Justice Oputa explained that while law and order reinforce one another, an unjust system of law would surely uphold an unjust order such as prevailed under totalitarian, colonial and oppressive regimes.

He remarked that law being man-made, was incapable of perfection and that laws having been made as rules to regulate social interaction, an element of natural justice, equity and good conscience were needed to save litigants from "the sharp teeth of the law" in cases that involve moral obligations.

Commenting on the controversial Section 32 of the Constitution dealing with press freedom, Mr Justice Oputa explained that while the right to free expression and thought were entrenched in the constitution, there was no specific clause guaranteeing the freedom of the Press without which the individual's right of speech could not be fully expressed.

Unite for progress Rivers people told

DR Friday Nwutor, a member of the dissolved Constituent Assembly and well-known Port Harcourt medical practitioner, has called on the people of the Rivers State to sink their differences and present a united front in order to effectively fight their common problems.

Dr Nwutor listed these problems as revenue allocation, roads, transport, light and the development of the various areas of the state.

The platform on which to achieve this aim was the Nigerian Peoples Party (NPP) whose aim in the Rivers State, he said, was to bridge the gap of discontent among the various groups in the state.

In a statement in Port Harcourt yesterday, Dr Nwutor refuted the view credited to Chief E. P. Otuwe that the faction of the NPP launched at Hotel Presidential of which Chief Warmate is the protem chairman, was committed to having another state carved out of the present Rivers State.

"If this were so", Dr Nwutor said, "I, who had suffered personally for the cause of one Rivers State would be the last person to belong to such a group."

Dr Nwutor declared: "The aim of NPP is to bridge the gap of discontent among the various groups in the Rivers State, to throw the bridge of unity between land and riverine communities, to sow a seed of love and peace among our people."

Dr Nwutor stressed that it was more important for Rivers people to unite now over their common problems such as revenue allocation, roads, transport, light and development rather than dissipate energy over differences of personality.

WORKERS URGED WAR ON SOCIAL ILLS

Mr B. M. Udokporo, secretary-general of the Agricultural and Allied Workers Union of Nigeria has called on Nigerian workers to commit themselves to a United Front to wage war against the growing ills of the nation.

Mr Udokporo said that Nigerian workers, as a body committed to social justice, should not relent their efforts towards fashioning out a deliberate programme of action to right all the wrongs inflicted on society by the society.

Mr Udokporo made the remarks at the launching of the Ondo State Council of the union at Akure.

He decried the alarm for the moral rebirth of the nation to save the country from her ills and other social vices.

He lamented the alarming rate of social injustices, unemployment, fraud, false sense of values, immorality, ostentatious living, greed, inordinate ambition and other bad tendencies in our society.

He called on workers to rise up to the salvation of the nation in wiping out the vices.

Mr Udokporo said that trade unionists were no saboteurs "But partners in progress with the government."

In his speech, the president-general of the union, Mr L. A. Ayorinde said the merging of several trade unions in the agricultural sector into one body under the new labour decree would usher in era of general improvement and social well being of workers.

Mr Ayorinde appealed to members of the union to wake-up to the challenge of making the Operation Feed the Nation a great success.

He attributed the main cause of set backs of agricultural production in the country to lack of funds and called on the government to do something to better the situation.

The principal labour officer at Akure, Mr I. A. Anjorin said that the basic function of trade unions was to secure satisfactory conditions of service for workers and also to give necessary support to employers efforts to increase production.

Therefore, he explained, when grievances arise, there should be proper method of handling them, to avoid industrial unrest much he said could be achieved through joint consultation and personal approach rather than through resorts to threats and disputes.

250 priests trained by school

Over 2,500 Theological students of various categories from West African countries have passed out from the Seraphim College of Theology, Ilaje-Ota in Ilaje-Ese-Odo Local Government area of Ondo State since its inception seven years ago.

The leader of the Cherubim and Seraphim Zion Church of Nigeria, Apostle E. L. Ogunfeyimi disclosed this in the town to mark the 22nd anniversary of the school.

Apostle Ogunfeyimi who warned against the activities of false prophets said that what the nation needed most was fervent prayers from all angles, especially at this period of transition from military to civil rule.

PRIORITY URGED FOR AGRICULTURAL PROJECTS

THE Cross River State Military Administrator, Captain M. A. B. Elegbede has urged the Cross River Basin Development Authority to re-examine and determine its priorities with a view to accelerating their execution.

He said special attention should be given to projects which are connected with the improvement of agricultural production in order to make the impact of the authority felt by the people of the state.

Captain Elegbede called for the construction of dams and irrigation systems especially in the northern parts of the state as well as the provision of improved water-supply to urban centres.

The Administrator made the call in Calabar when he visited the Cross River Basin Development Authority headquarters.

He remarked that the authority should, by now be feeding the states with data and scientific information on areas of possible exploitation for the economic development of the country as a whole since it was set up 15 months ago. He also expressed that with the right impetus most of the projects should have been in the development stage as of now and problems like water shortage should have been tackled.

UNIBADAN ALUMNI ANNOUNCE RESULTS

A COMMISSIONER in the Rivers State Public Service Commission, Mr Emmanuel Agunna has expressed serious concern over the mis-staging of intellectual activities in the state capital.

He was speaking during a raffle draw organised by the national executive council of the Ibadan University Alumni Association which took place in Kaduna.

Mr Agunna who is the secretary of the Port Harcourt branch of the association said, "It is disturbing that intellectual activities hardly ever feature alongside other social activities (Sport-Harmonie), as one of the leading people of enlightened world and around the city."

He however commended Port Harcourt branch the association which raised over N4,000.00 and came second in Kaduna this recorded for largest ever.

More than N10,000.00 was realised from the raffle draw.

Workshop on health scheme ends

A FIVE DAY workshop on the basic health services scheme designed to examine the strategies which would facilitate the implementation of the scheme has ended in Benin City.

In an opening address the Bendel State Commissioner for Health, Chief A. S. O. Ejoh, said government was giving priority attention to the workshop as a first step to bringing public health to the doorsteps of the people.

The commissioner pointed out that as deaths by accidents and other health hazards plagued the society, it was necessary to decide on essential medical skills needed for the scheme and to train sufficient personnal for it.

Chief Ejoh noted that, when suitably trained, such category of staff could prevent, diagnose and treat common ailments and refer those beyond their competence to experts.

CJ gives lecture

THE Nigerian citizen and the law was the subject of a lecture which was delivered last week in Port Harcourt by the Chief Judge of Imo State Mr Justice C. A. Oputa.

Attended by legal luminaries from both the Rivers and Imo States, the lecture took place at the City Council Hall. Below at the lecture were Mr Justice Oputa (standing), the chief judge of Rivers State, Mr Ambrose Allagoa (extreme right), the deputy chairman of the Rivers State Executive Council, Attorney-General and Commissioner for Justice, Mr Loveday Iyagba (3rd from right) and others.

EDITORIAL

THEY DESERVE IT

ONE POINT which has always formed the core of most of the Head of State's speeches is the need for Nigerians to re-examine themselves to give the best of service to the Nation. In most of his broadcasts, he has always emphasised the attributes of sacrifice, dedication and selflessness in our national life, believing very strongly that the path to true greatness lies in these noble qualities.

TO FURTHER bring this message home was the Federal Military Government's National Award in honour of four Nigerians to mark the occasion of the Eighteenth Independence Anniversary. They are, Herbert Macaulay, Alhaji Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, Alvan Ikoku, and General Murtala Muhammed. Though dead, these Nigerians will continue to live in our minds as people whose sacrifice and dedication to duty contributed immensely to our celebration of independence anniversaries, and acquiring a new sense of national pride.

THEY WERE so honoured, not because of their wealth (and none of them was of an outstanding weight materialistically), but because of their selfless service in the cause of building a prosperous, united Nigeria.

NIGERIANS will never forget that it was the late Herbert Macaulay who kindled the fire of nationalism in the country. His agitation for a decent place for the African under the sun in those heydays of colonialism provided a source of inspiration, and, in fact, served as a catalyst in the struggle against imperial rule. Herbert Macaulay thus became the rallying point of the nation's progressive forces; and it is to his honour to have been the leader of the first mass movement in the country.

NIGERIANS still remember their first Prime Minister in the person of Alhaji Abubakar Tafawa Balewa whose humility, honesty, and devotedness to the nation's cause won the day for Nigeria in 1957, 1959, 1960 and 1961. When all others appeared to be losing their heads, Alhaji Abubakar kept his, and so was he able to diffuse many of the political time-bombs which would have exploded too early in our nationhood.

IN THAT HEAT of regional and intense tribal politics, Alhaji Abubakar stood firm as a Nigerian, thereby succeeding in holding the country together. And when other Ministers and Parliamentarians would decide travelling to Europe and the Americas to spend their annual leave, this Nigerian would go up to his home town, Balewa, to tend his farm.

WE WILL ALWAYS honour Alvan Ikoku for his far-reaching contributions to the educational development of the country. The founder of the Aggrey Memorial Grammar School, Aro-Chukwu, the late Ikoku had the vision of bringing education to a people who would otherwise have stayed too long in the dark. And more important was his pioneering work in organising the country's long suffering teachers through the Nigerian Union of Teachers which is today a formidable vanguard for this group of Nigerians in not only improving their lot but in their service to the nation as well. The Alvan Ikoku College of Education in Owerri stands as a worthy appreciation of the country to this great son.

THEN OF COURSE, the last but not the least, General Murtala Muhammed — that civil war hero turned Head of State who laid down his life for his nation. At a time when the ship of state was sinking, when national morale was almost at its lowest ebb, and when frustration was about giving birth to violence, a leader emerged to save the country; and he was General Muhammed.

ALMOST IMMEDIATELY, the nation found its bearing; and in this new direction, discipline, sacrifice, honesty, and hard work became the watchwords. And so when Muhammed died, the nation went sorely.

WHAT NIGERIANS should learn from these illustrious sons, and indeed from General Obasanjo's speeches, is the fact that there are more enduring qualities which make life a happier one, and therefore more meaningful. These are not necessarily the ephemeral things of this earth — especially wealth. Rather, they are service to mankind and the nation which means love of God. Then and only then shall we be remembered by posterity.

WHAT HOPE FOR DERE?

THE citizens of K. Dere in Rori Local Government area now live in abject fear because of an earth tremor which occurred there on the night of last Wednesday, September 27.

The tremor which began at about 8.30 p.m. damaged some buildings and structures that scared villagers were only prevented from escaping from the town by Chief C. A. Mitee, the Mene Bar Numu of Goikana, who appealed that calm be exercised and that there was no cause for alarm.

No cause for alarm?

The point is that Shell BP operates about 35 oil wells in this supposedly forgotten town, and it is speculated that the tremor might be the precedence of a probable earthquake.

Would the government give due attention to the plight of this people and send seismologists to the area to try to determine the cause of the tremor.

Come to our aid

MAY I call on the joint Army/Police patrol team(s) to come and rescue the lives of the inhabitants in the area of Udoka National and Wobo streets in Mile 2 Diobu, Port Harcourt.

The inhabitants are in constant fear due to the regular visits of armed robbers in the area.

Almost daily, these men of the underworld keep knocking and forcing open the doors of tenants only to demand money and other items of value or be severely beaten by those gang of thieves.

Please, do something and help us!

GERMAN G. OJIOGWU

CHECK OUR GREEDY TRADERS

I congratulate the Federal Military Government and patriotic Nigerians who aim at making life good for us all.

Nigerians have high taste for imported goods which can best be made within the country.

To this end the Head of State, in his light budget speech, sometime in May this year placed ban on certain items which are locally produced.

Further, for the interest of the nation, another ban was placed on imported goods in our large and departmental stores, in September the same year.

My observation now shows that the "clearance sales" only favour the traders who parade round the large stores.

They clear everything and stock them in their shops.

These items would later be sold at cut-throat prices to the public.

These traders whose money are more than their country's welfare are indirectly trying to contravene the laws which aim at self reliance and growth.

I, therefore, call on the Federal Military Government to declare imprisonment terms as penalty for the sale of any of the imported goods as outlined.

This will definitely check the intrigues of these money lovers in our society.

Consider our villages

WHEN the Rivers State Government announced the construction of the Abonda - Buguma road, some villagers in Ekpeye and Emohua in the Abonda Local Government Area braved a sigh of relief as this road, they presumed, would make travelling easy in his area.

BUT to our utter amazement the road rather passed through forest, cutting off over 30 villages with great population.

Consequently, these people have to trek long distances with their luggages before reaching the new motorable road.

Students are no exception in this hazard, as they sometimes get drenched in the rain with their books and uniforms.

To add our (villages) difficulties the government should please construct a road that will pass through Ubeba, Ikoli, Ochiko, Umeze, Emohua, Egbeta, Ekpeye, Ebubu, Ekpeye, Obiakpo, Okuku, Akwawa, Ogbaku and Okuru joining the Abonda-Buguma road at Abua Central.

This would be both of social and economic advantage to the people of this forest prone dwelling areas.

PUBLIC OPINION FORUM

Revive Ubima tradition

I AM appealing to the people of Ubima in Ikwerre-Etche Local Government not to forget their traditional celebration-the Nkpakeogu.

It has been observed that for about ten years now this celebration has not taken place, and it appears that the indiscipline of the Ubima Community, especially the girls, is because this traditional education had been ignored.

I therefore call on the elders and people of Ubima to revive this rituals so that it does not present a break with tradition.

Why do men change names often?

IT is not a matter to surprise anyone if a woman changes names.

For one reason she could be married and change from Miss to Mrs.

For another reason she could divorce and change from Mrs to Miss or get married to another man and thereby change from Mrs to Mrs again.

Many working class women change names when they are under pregnancy so as to defend themselves.

But what reasons can a man give to defend himself for this action?

No reason whatsoever, except that he would like to change from his christian to native name just as say, from Tonye to Joon, but even at that his father's grandfather's name would still stand.

Only criminals would like to have their names changed.

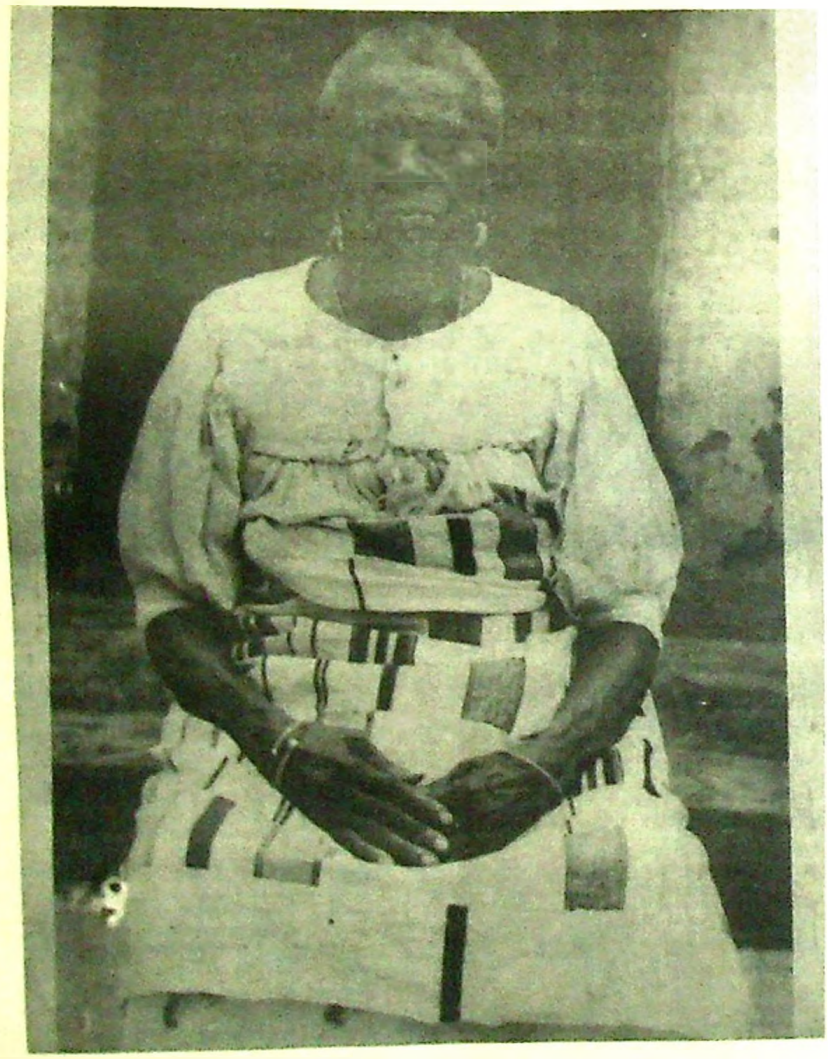

In one of the Nigerian Tide issues of August 30th, at least fourteen of them cases and most particularly the changes were made by students and civil servants who must have gained admission and employment with forged certificates.

Then later they become interested to change to their real names.

REMEMBRANCE

We remember this day a year ago when our loving mother, grand mother, great grand mother, was called for higher services and left a great vacuum in the family. We may not physically see you dear Mother but you are very much alive in our memory for your devoted christian life which continues to guide our daily life.

MADAM SARAH IBIFURO KONIBO

Sleep in peace great Mother, until the resurrection morning.

RIVERS CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY...

Last Sunday, October 1, marked the 18th anniversary of Nigeria's attainment of nationhood.

Throughout the federation the occasion was marked with pomp and pageantry.

These pictures were recorded in the Port Harcourt Temporary Stadium venue of the Rivers State celebrations.

And the young ones were also present to keep on picture below showing a march-past at the stadium.

Picture below (middle) is a cultural display by the people of Okrika on Thurs-

Customs director warns on corruption

by Sam Effiong

THE director of Customs and Excise, Mr O. Oyeleye, has warned members of his staff against corruption in the department. Mr Oyeleye made the remark while addressing the inaugural conference of Customs and Excise and Immigration Staff Union at Hotel Presidential, Port Harcourt.

He noted that the conference represented an important mile-post in the history of the industrial union.

It was symbolic of the important role the Customs and Immigration Departments were expected to play "and in fact have been playing in the socio-economic life of Nigeria."

"It will go to the external credit of the present Military Administration that it succeeded to bring sanity, peace and orderliness within the trade union circles," he said.

"The decision on trade unionism allowed to roam the job opportunities by trade unionists or the uncontrolled proliferation of trade union organisations for the furtherance of personal, political, social and material ambitions by a few individuals".

The director also warned against illegal agitation and trade disputes.

He stressed that the union would live up to the high ideals envisaged in the relevant decrees, to ensure greater productivity.

While enjoining them for self discipline to avoid corruption, the director hoped that the Departmental Selection Board responsible for promotion was done with the assistance of headquarters' creation.

Bright future awaits devoted, disciplined and qualified officers bearing in mind the rate of economic development and expansion of their functions, he declared.

In his remarks, the chairman of the Port Harcourt zonal union, Mr Ngozi Ego me called on the two departments to take the challenge of unity instead of engaging themselves in individual inordinate ambitions like "political lobbies" so as to achieve their goals as a trade union body.

Mr J. E. Amadi, permanent secretary in the Administrator's Office who represented the SMG at the occasion expressed delight at the launching of the zonal union and charged the union to live up to expectation.

PASA WEEK THRILL

It's a jolly ride for men

IT wasn't a jolly ride for men of the Nigerian Ports Authority when they thrashed their ladies counterparts 5 — 2 in a cold soccer war during the weekend. The match which aroused a lot of laughter and eclapping was one of the activities lined up to mark this year's Rivers Ports Authority Sports Association (NPASA) Week which ended at the Stella Maris College ground, Port Harcourt, over the weekend.

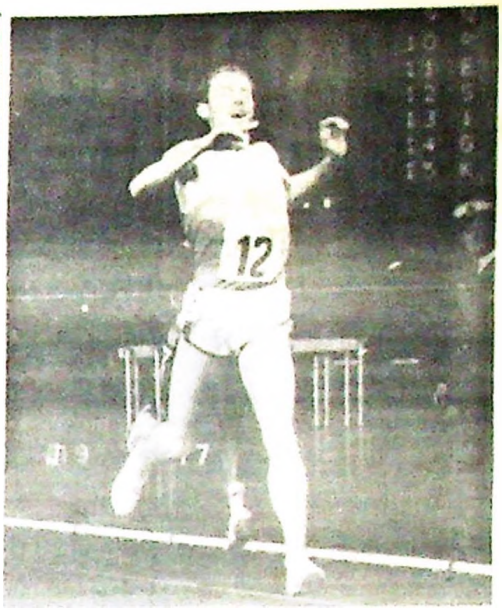

In a swift action the men carried the battle midway unto the women half but soon lost the ball from where they got it as the women made some harassments at the men's eighteen. Their effort was short lived as undaunted 'keeper Agoro (NPA Ports Manager) thwarted all dangerous moves with good clearance.

Credit must go to the angle women goalkeeper who damned most of the shots and high lobs that came her way. But for the tumbling of her forwards and defence the goals were escored.

Men got their first goal through a goalmouth scramble. The ovation had hardly settled when women levelled scores in a belligerent mood.

At half time scores stood at 1-1 each way end. The men later scored 3 goals to swamp the women.

New world record in 2 miles race

Steve Ovett of Britain crosses the finishing line to set a new two miles world record at an athletic meeting at Crystal Palace Stadium near London.

Ovett beat Kenya's multiple world record holder Henry Rono (hidden behind Ovett in this picture) into second place as he smashed two tenths of a second off the previous record—set by Britain's Brendan Foster—with a time of 8 minutes 13.5 seconds.

TRAFFIC DEPT MAULS T&S 3-0

by Inengisa Somiari

TRAFFIC Department with a 3 — 0 victory over Tools & Supply became the first NPA team to win the Port Manager's Cup as the Rivers PASA Week ended at the Stella Maris College ground, over the weekend.

Tools & Supply were not disgraced as their exuberance was matched by the authority Kingsley, Maxwell, Mbah, NPA players Ernest, Albert, of Traffic wound starring old and experienced, only a team Christian, Peter) calibre could boast of.

No sooner did Mr W. Augustus, retired Dock Superintendent, take the kick-off than Traffic went into battle for early goals. This was short lived as a shaky Tools & Supply goalkeeper managed to save some goal bound shots.

About the 15th minute came one of those shots about outside right Christian Chime's carpet drive was parried into corner by T/S goalkeeper.

Minutes later, Chime had another chance but shot into the hands of T/S goalkeeper. This followed a catalogue of misses by Traffic.

Tools & Supply later came into the game. They counter-attacked strongly and were only let down by their inability to snap up chances. Their incursions proved a flash-in-the-pan: thus forcing 'indefatigable' defender Okoro to do over time at the back.

The first half ended in a draw.

Traffic came into the second half with a fully-equipped armoury. They showed a superlative form as they invaded T/S danger zone with confidence crowded with high sense of maturity.

After a spate of harassment, Traffic began their goal feast as outside left, Daniel Nathaniel moved into T/S eighteen and registered the curtain raiser.

Most exciting was a superb 40-yard cannon shot taken by Maxwell Ndubuisi for Traffic's winning goal after Gladstone Idiakhoubuno had rather scored the second goal.

Earlier in a one-sided Tug-of-War encounter, Security Department defeated their Fire Service counterparts by two straight pulls to nil.

New European record in decathlon

Picture left shows the Olympic silver medalist in the decathlon at the Montreal Olympics, Guido Kratschmer, recently set up a new European record of 8,495 points at the German decathlon championships held at Bernhausen near Stuttgart (Federal Republic of Germany). In the process, Kratschmer bettered the existing record held by Nikolai Avilov of the Soviet Union since 1972 by 41 points. In spite of scorching heat (around 30 degrees C in the shade), the 28-year-old student was able to improve upon his own personal best mark in five events. Kratschmer's most outstanding performances were an electrically timed 10.60 sec. over 100 metres, a 7.84 metre leap in the long jump (photo) and 14.01 sec. for the 110 metres hurdles. His only difficulties came in the high jump (1.91m) and in the javelin (58.60 metres). The student of biology and sport, who obtained the right to study via a special examination for the talented, had this to say about his success: "I didn't really expect to fare so well and produce such a performance. Of late, I haven't trained an that much as I wasn't feeling too great".

A citizen's path of honour

IT is generally said that Nigerians are corrupt, greedy and deep in graft and materialism. That generalisation could not be true. At least a recent case has proved it so.

A citizen who works with a supermarket in Port Harcourt has written to the Editor of the Nigerian Tide that a customer this week, is presumed to have paid "between N50 and N200" over after purchase at supermarket.

If you are the one, think of the actual amount, the right supermarket, the exact date - this week and the right desk at the supermarket where you paid for your goods.

And if possible, you should be in possession of the cashier's receipt.

Then contact, the Editor, Nigerian Tide, 4, Ikwerre Road, Port Harcourt.

Sa'idu frowns at 'filthy' govt premises

CHIEF executives of Rivers State ministries have been rebuked for allowing the premises of government buildings to be used as dumping grounds.

They were rebuked by the state Military Administrator, Commander Sulleiman Sa'idu when he paid an unscheduled visit to the headquarters of the state Ministry of Education in Port Harcourt.

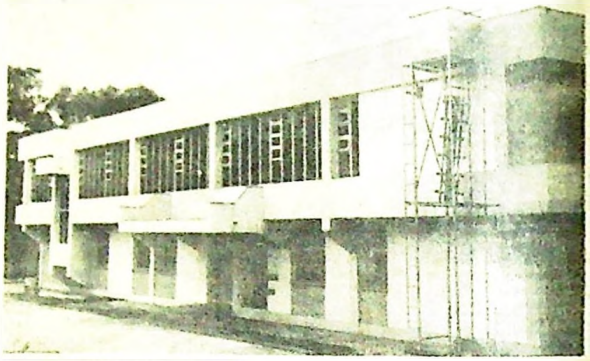

Commander Sa'idu was received at the premises of the ministry by the state Commissioner for Education, Professor Tam David-West and his permanent secretary, Captain Ibrahim Amadi.

He frowned at the way scraps of unsightly motor-cycles, vehicles and waste-papers had been allowed to litter and constitute an eye-sore in the ministry's premises.

The Administrator stated that on no account should a responsible officer overlook such an ugly situation and warned chief executives of ministries and other government departments in the state against what he described as the present use of public buildings as dumping grounds for unsightly government property.

He ordered that such items, like pieces of unused furniture, and files should be removed forthwith while the people of waste papers should also be burnt in order to forestall divulging of confidential secrets illegally.

Commenting on the opening of some Federal regalias of the ministry, the Administrator recommended to senior state executives of a cost system in recording movements of files between offices for easy reference and safety.

Women front formed for politics '79

AN EYE ON GOVERNORSHIP

A GROUP of women in Kwara State have indicated their intention to form a political party which will vie for the governorship of the state. The organisation which is known as the Association for Female Rights, will however affiliate with the National Party of Nigeria.

This was disclosed by the president of the association, Miss Kemye Ajibove when members of the association paid a courtesy call on the state vice-chairman of the National Party of Nigeria, Dr Olusola Saraki in Ilorin at the weekend.

Miss Ajibove referred to the members of the association as women aspirants in the state who would play active role in politics both on state and national levels.

She asserted that the country was blessed with capable women of high calibre whose reputation and integrity could not be over-emphasised.

She added that women had great love for the country. They love peace and could resist any temptation to accumulate wealth illegally, pending out further that with these qualities they could effectively hold political office.

Replying, Dr Olusola Saraki said he could not assure the association that their pledge for the party was accepted since it would first be brought before the state committee.

He remarked that it was against the constitution of the committee to accept any affiliation. Dr Saraki, however assured them that when accepted the women would be accorded equality, justice, humanity and respect.

BROADCASTING HOUSE PROJECT IN A FIX?

by Sam Effiong

Construction work on Port Harcourt multi-million naira new broadcasting house by the Federal Government has been abandoned following the lack of "structural specifications".

Speaking to me in Port Harcourt on the project, Mr B. Dho, the project manager of Ponti and Company Limited, who are handling the project said that work should have been completed sometime last year if the architects had supplied the drawings to his company on time.

He added that when all efforts to get the drawings failed, they had no alternative than to abandon the project.

Construction work, he stated, had been completed on the ground and first floors which are to be used as studio and administrative offices.

Uncompleted aspects of the project included electrification, the airconditioning and other minor works, the project manager added.

Mr Dho threatened to pack off the site if the architects failed to play their own part.

Here is part of the broadcasting complex as recorded by our cameramen — Sam Ekre.
